FAQ:

- What are Honors classes like? Honors classes are taught seminar style, with an emphasis on written and oral communication skill development. Students from all majors on campus are pursuing the Honors certificate, and we encourage innovative, interdisciplinary proposals for both General Education courses and advanced level courses. Most classes have enrollment caps of 17 students. For more information about our educational philosophy, please see our mission statement http://www.umsl.edu/divisions/honors/About%20Us/mission.html or contact Dan or Nancy. To see some of our past course offerings, please see our course descriptions http://www.umsl.edu/divisions/honors/Current%20Students/coursedescriptions.html.

- Who teaches Honors classes? In addition to our six full-time faculty members, we have courses taught by tenure-track, non-tenure track, and adjunct faculty from diverse disciplines at UMSL, including but not limited to philosophy, English, history, political science, business administration, art history, communications, psychology, gender studies, media studies, anthropology, education, and biology.

- How does teaching Honors affect my teaching load? Academic units for full-time UMSL faculty, both tenure track and non-tenure track, receive transfer funds, either directly from Honors or from existing agreements, in order to support your teaching in Honors. Arrangements are made between the faculty member, the faculty member’s home department, and the Honors College. Please contact us and your department chair for more information. Part-time faculty should communicate directly with the Honors College.

Please indicate briefly the main form(s) of assessment to be used in the proposed course, e.g. number, length, and type of essays or term paper; seminar participation; oral reports; projects; presentations; etc.

Would you propose that your seminar be cross-listed with another course in your department/area or otherwise be counted for major credit in your department/area? Cross-listed courses do allow for a select number of seats to be reserved for qualified non-Honors students.

Yes _____ No _____

If you know the appropriate course number and title, please provide it:

If you answered yes, please note that cross-listing Honors courses and/or allowing them to be taken for departmental major or minor credit normally requires formal departmental approval. Please indicate whether you have discussed approval with your department chair and/or indicate below the person in your department who should be contacted by the Honors College.

Chairperson name:

I have discussed this with my department chair already.

Honors College classrooms are equipped with instructor computer station (including DVD) and projection, as well as either chalk board or dry-erase board. Some additional resources, such as overhead projectors and VCRs, are available upon request. If you anticipate technology needs beyond what our “stick classrooms” offer, please indicate those needs and the degree of frequency. Please note that we may not be able to fulfill all requests and will notify you during our course scheduling process if we anticipate any problems.

THANK YOU FOR PROPOSING A COURSE FOR THE PIERRE LACLEDE HONORS COLLEGE!

A member of the Honors College administration will be in contact with you. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact us.
