INTRODUCTION
The Transition Assistance Program provides short term temporary income and benefits to employees subject to involuntary layoff. Transition assistance applies to all Administrative, Service and Support employees. Individuals not covered by HR 117 Layoff do not have seniority and preferential hiring rights. Other layoff provisions remain in effect. The following transition assistance program will apply to layoffs occurring between March 1, 2009 and June 30, 2010.

ELIGIBILITY
All regular Administrative, Service and Support employees (as defined in HR 101 Employee Status) who have successfully completed their probationary period are eligible for transition assistance. Employees whose positions are discontinued because of a reduction in the workforce are eligible for transition assistance, regardless of funding source. Non-regular (as defined in HR 101 Employee Status) and probationary employees are not eligible.

In some cases, it may be several weeks between the time the employee is notified of layoff and the actual date of layoff. To qualify for transition assistance, the employee must continue to perform his or her duties in a satisfactory manner after notice of layoff and prior to the effective date of the layoff. If the employee refuses to accept transfer or assignment to a comparable regular University position, the employee loses his or her right to transition assistance. In addition, the employee is not eligible for transition assistance if any of the following events occur prior to the effective date of layoff or, once commenced, is not eligible for the continuation of transition assistance if any of these events occur prior to the end of transition assistance: 1) death 2) retirement 3) termination, 4) receipt of Long-Term Disability (LTD) benefits or 5) acceptance of another regular benefit eligible position within the University. In order for an employee to be eligible to receive transition assistance payment, the employee is required to sign the University of Missouri Transition Assistance Payment Agreement and Release.

NOTICE
Employees will be given a minimum of two weeks written notice of layoff because of a workforce reduction. At the University’s option, such employees may receive two weeks pay (prior to transition assistance payments) in lieu of notice. Issuance of layoff notice must be coordinated through campus Human Resources.

TRANSITION PAY
An eligible employee will receive one week of pay (minimum of 4 weeks; maximum of 26 weeks) for every year of continuous regular employment, immediately prior to layoff. For regular employees who have a contract with a specified end date, transition pay shall not exceed the amount the employee would have earned through the contract end date. Transition payments will be made in accordance with the employee’s regular pay schedule. Such payment and the employee’s repayment obligations shall be in accordance with the University of Missouri Transition Assistance Payment Agreement and Release and shall not begin until the effective date of the agreement.

TRANSITION BENEFITS
All eligible Administrative, Service and Support employees with a minimum of five years of continuous regular employment with the University (including those not covered under HR 117 Layoff), immediately prior to layoff, will be placed on a layoff leave of absence for one year from the effective date of layoff. All eligible Administrative, Service and Support employees with less than five years of continuous regular employment with the University (including those not covered under HR 117 Layoff), immediately prior to layoff, will be placed on a layoff leave of absence for three months from the effective date of layoff, provided, however, the layoff leave of absence may not exceed a contract end date, if any. During the layoff leave of absence, the employee will be eligible to participate in the University’s benefit programs (medical, dental, life, accidental death and long-term disability). The University will continue to pay its portion of the benefit premiums during the layoff leave of absence.

Employees placed on layoff leave of absence are required to notify campus Human Resources if they obtain employment outside the University and/or if they become eligible for coverage under other benefit programs as a result of such employment. Participation in the University’s benefit programs will not be continued if the employee becomes eligible for coverage under other benefit programs as a result of employment outside the University.

The qualifying event date for COBRA eligibility is the effective date of the layoff leave of absence. The COBRA benefit period will run concurrently with the layoff leave of absence. Once the layoff leave of absence has expired, COBRA benefits can continue, with full costs paid by the individual, for the remainder of the COBRA eligibility period allowed (not to exceed 18 months in total). The Faculty and Staff Benefits Office will mail information on COBRA benefits, including the timeframe for COBRA election.

OUTPLACEMENT SERVICE
Outplacement services such as resume preparation help in developing job search strategies and interviewing skills will be made available to an employee through campus Human Resources, which will also provide contact information for the appropriate Division of Employment Security.
Continuation of Employee Benefits

Group Health Insurance
- If you are currently enrolled in a UM medical plan, your current health insurance coverage will cease as of the last day of the month in which the layoff occurs.
- During the time period (3- or 12-months) you are eligible for layoff status, you will be eligible to continue your insurance through the University paying the same premium rates as active employees or you may elect the premium subsidy per the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA). This period would run concurrently with your eligible continuation period under COBRA.
- You have the option to extend your health, dental and/or vision plans in which you are currently enrolled through the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act (COBRA) for up to 18 months. You will be eligible for the nine month premium subsidy provided for in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA).
- Employee Benefits will mail COBRA enrollment forms to you (at the home address listed in HR Records) at the beginning of the layoff period. You can expect to see this packet approximately two weeks after your layoff begins. If applying for COBRA, you must complete the COBRA election form and return it to Great West. You have 60-days from the date of notification or the qualifying event date (whichever is later) to return the continuation election form.
- It is important to note that COBRA continuation is not automatic; it is a choice you make. You may also want to investigate other individual plan options instead of continuation under COBRA. (Please refer to the Resources at the end of the Benefits section.)
- For the layoff period, you would make payments directly to the Employee Benefits office. Upon completion of layoff period, you would continue insurance coverage but make payments to the COBRA plan administrator. You are responsible for paying the full cost of continued insurance coverage during the remaining COBRA period of coverage. Or you may elect to receive the nine month premium subsidy as provided for by the ARRA. Once the layoff period (3 or 12 months) has ended, your COBRA will be administered by Great West.
- Great West will notify individuals of billing and payment methods. Their toll-free telephone number is (800)392-5368.

Flexible Spending Accounts (FSA)
- Your current participation in a Flexible Spending Account will end as of the last day of the month in which you receive your final paycheck.
- For Health Care FSA, you can file for reimbursement for all eligible expenses incurred prior to the end of the month your last check is received. These expenses cannot exceed the annual pledge amount designated for the calendar year. You have until April 15th of the following year to submit eligible claims. The account can be extended through the end of the calendar year on an after-tax basis if you elect continuation through COBRA. COBRA continuation is not automatic; it is a choice you must make.
- For Dependent Care FSA, you will have until March 31st following the end of the plan year to file claims which were incurred up to the end of the month in which you received your final check. There is not a COBRA option for the Dependent Care FSA.
- For Dependent Care FSA, you can apply for reimbursement for all eligible expenses incurred prior to the end of month last check is received but it cannot exceed the current amount in your FSA account.
- The COBRA continuation forms will be mailed to your home address listed in HR. COBRA is administered by Great West Healthcare for the UM System. Account balances and general information may be obtained from ASI at their toll-free number (800)659-3035.
Life Insurance Conversion

Basic Life Policy
- You may elect to convert your Basic Life policy from group term life insurance to an individual life insurance policy without proof of insurability. You would be issued a whole life insurance policy known as Classic Life.
- The premium is based on your age at the time of conversion and the dollar amount converted. The premium is paid directly to Minnesota Life Insurance Company.
- If interested in conversion, you need to complete and submit a life insurance conversion form to Minnesota Life within 31 calendar days of termination of layoff leave. Contact your Campus Benefit Representative for this conversion form.
- The individual life insurance policy is issued by Minnesota Life Insurance Company.

Optional Supplemental Life Insurance Policy
- You may elect to convert your policy from group term life insurance to an individual life insurance policy without proof of insurability. You would be issued a whole life insurance policy known as Classic Life.
- Your premium is based on your age at the time of conversion and the dollar amount converted. The premium is paid directly to Minnesota Life Insurance Company.
- If interested in conversion, you need to complete and submit a life insurance conversion form to Minnesota Life within 31 calendar days of termination of layoff leave. Contact your Campus Benefit Representative for this conversion form.
- The individual life insurance policy is issued by Minnesota Life Insurance Company.

Long Term Care
- If you currently have long term care insurance through MetLife, you will be allowed to continue your policy through the layoff period and after termination.
- If you are currently paying your long term care premiums through payroll deduction, you will need to set up another payment method with MetLife upon the start of layoff.
- You should contact MetLife directly at (800)438-6388 to make payment arrangements.

Retirement Plans

University of Missouri Retirement, Disability, and Death Benefit Plan
- Vested member – has three options (after layoff leave is terminated)
  - Leave money in account and begin a monthly benefit as early as age 55 when eligible
  - Withdraw money if value is less than $20,000 and pay taxes and possible penalties
  - Rollover money to an individual IRA account or another qualified plan
- Non vested member – no options
  - No pension funds available
- Vested Status – an employee becomes a qualified member of the pension plan after they have completed 5 years of regular service credit. Periods of unpaid service would not count towards vesting service credit. Certain leaves of absence, paid or unpaid, will not count towards vesting.
- If you are currently eligible to retire, you may elect to do so in lieu of a layoff. This election may be accomplished by completing a Notice of Intent to Retire form that is available through Human Resources and on their website (http://www.umsystem.edu/benefits/forms).

Tax Deferred Investment Programs
- 403b (pre-tax)
- 403b Roth
- 457b
- 401a
  - Member has three options (after layoff leave is terminated unless age 59 ½ with the exception of the 457(b) program which requires termination even for those age 59 ½):
- Leave money in account
- Withdraw money and pay taxes and possible penalties
- Rollover money into individual IRA account
  - Appropriate forms can be obtained by the member from their investment company

Contact your campus benefit representative to discuss this option and completion of appropriate paperwork.

Note: If you return to active status prior to the end of your layoff period, you will once again accrue service credit towards the pension. This would be added to previous time, but the time in layoff status would not be counted. If you do not return prior to end of layoff period but regain employment to the UM System at a future date, any prior creditable service would be reviewed to determine vesting status for you.

Educational Savings Program (MOST)
- Contact MOST at (800)962-5088 with questions or for information.

Educational Assistance
- An employee receiving educational assistance will remain eligible to continue benefit through the semester in which they are put in layoff status, as long as they remain in layoff status through the entire semester.
- Once in layoff status, employees are not eligible for any additional semesters.

Education Fee Reduction for Spouses & Dependents
- Spouse and dependents of employees will be able to participate in the educational fee reduction program during the layoff leave of absence provided they meet the eligibility requirements of the program.

Paid Time Off

Vacation Accruals
- All unused vacation accruals will be paid as a lump sum payment on your final check when put on layoff status.
- If you return to active status prior to the end of your layoff period, you will begin accruing vacation time at your previous rate. Previous balances are not renewed but start over at zero.

Personal Days
- Upon entering layoff status, any unused personal hours will be forfeited upon termination or at your anniversary date.

Sick Accruals
- Unused sick time is not paid out.
- If you return to active status prior to end of layoff period, you will not lose your current balance and will begin accruing sick time again at your previous rate.
- Upon termination or end of layoff period, all sick leave balances are forfeited. Exception – any employee that is eligible for retirement will retain sick time to be used in pension calculation.
1. What is a regular University employee?
   A regular employee is an Administrative, Service and Support staff member expected to work at least 75% FTE with an indicated appointment duration of at least nine months.

2. Are employees who are not eligible for layoff benefits under HR 117 eligible for transition assistance benefits?
   Yes. Employees who are not eligible for layoff benefits may be eligible for transition assistance.

3. What is the definition of “comparable” regular University position?
   A comparable position is one that has similar job responsibilities, 75% FTE or greater and pay that is within the same salary range of the employee’s salary at the time of transfer or reassignment. Final determination regarding a comparable position will be made by campus Human Resources.

4. What is the minimum amount of notice that must be given to the employee?
   Two weeks. However, at the University’s option, employees may receive two weeks pay in lieu of notice.

5. How will layoff notice be given to the employee?
   Layoff notice must be given to the employee in writing after coordination with campus Human Resources.

6. What happens to vacation, sick leave and personal days when the employee is placed on a layoff leave of absence?
   Vacation balances will be paid in a lump sum on the staff member’s final check for regular employment. Any unused sick leave and personal days may not be used during the layoff leave of absence but will be reinstated only if the employee is returned to a regular position prior to the end of the layoff leave of absence. If the employee’s anniversary date occurs during the layoff leave of absence, any unused personal days will be lost and 4 new personal days will be added but are not available for use unless the employee returns to a regular position prior to the end of the layoff leave of absence.

7. Are partial years of continuous service counted in calculating transition assistance compensation?
   A half-year or more of regular employment, based on the employee’s anniversary date, is considered a complete year and less than a half-year is disregarded.

8. Does the transition assistance payment include payment for overtime?
   No. The transition assistance payment will be calculated on a straight-time basis.

9. Does the transition assistance payment include payment for shift differential?
   Yes. Shift differential is included if it has been normally included in the employee’s compensation. For an employee working different shifts, the transition assistance payment will be based on the average weekly pay during the two preceding pay periods.

10. What is the rate of pay for the transition assistance payment?
    The transition assistance is paid at the rate the employee was being paid at the time of layoff and does not include any increases based on increases to ranges, minimum wage, etc. which occur during the transition period.

11. Can an employee apply for unemployment benefits during the layoff leave of absence period?
Yes. Employees who are placed on layoff leave of absence due to workforce reductions can apply and the Division of Employment Security will determine if they are eligible for unemployment benefits.

12. When must the University of Missouri Transition Assistance Payment Agreement and Release be submitted?
   The agreement should be provided to employees with the notice of layoff. No transition assistance payment will be made until the signed form is returned to the department and campus Human Resources has been notified of its receipt and the period for the employee to revoke the signed form has expired.

13. Will COBRA benefits be available to allow for continued medical and dental insurance coverage?
   The qualifying event date for COBRA eligibility is the effective date of the layoff leave of absence. The COBRA benefit period will run concurrently with the layoff leave of absence. Once the layoff leave of absence has expired, COBRA benefits can continue, with full costs paid by the individual, for the remainder of the COBRA eligibility period allowed (not to exceed 18 months in total). The Faculty and Staff Benefits Office will mail information on COBRA benefits, including the timeframe for COBRA election.

14. Will employees receive service credit for the layoff leave of absence, will the layoff leave of absence count toward vesting, and will the transition assistance payment be included in the retirement benefit calculation?
   No.

15. Will employees be eligible to participate in HR 303 Educational Assistance?
   Under Collected Rule and Regulation 230.070, employees on leave are not eligible to participate in the Educational Assistance Program. However, employees receiving educational assistance will remain eligible to continue the benefit through the semester in which they are put in layoff status.

16. Will spouses and dependents of employees be able to participate in HR 309 Educational Fee Reduction program?
   Spouse and dependents of employees will be able to participate in the educational fee reduction program during the layoff leave of absence provided they meet the eligibility requirements of the program.

17. What if I find a job at UMSL or UM while in leave status? How are each of the PTO categories affected?
   Vacation – you will begin accruing vacation time at your previous rate. 2) Sick – your sick balance will be activated and you will begin accruing time again. 3) Personal – if you are activated prior to anniversary date, you will have previous balance to use. If activated after anniversary date, you will be given your new accruals for the year.

18. If I come back to work for the University, 1) are my years of service bridged for time off accrual purposes? And, 2) what about for vesting purposes?
   1) No.
   2) You do not lose service credit. However, how this is applied depends on current amount of service time and the gap in employment time with the University. These are reviewed on a case-by-case basis to determine whether time is bridged for vesting or if employee would be required to vest without prior service and then add it on. You should consult with your Campus Benefit Representative.

19. Will I be able to access my vested benefit? When?
   You are not eligible to access your vested benefit until the layoff leave period ends. If you are vested and do not become re-employed at the University during your leave, your file will be transferred to the UM benefits office within one month and after receipt of appropriate certification of age and relationship documents, you will receive your vested benefit materials within 3-5 months.

20 Is it possible to retire now?
If you are 55 years old and have 10 years of creditable service or if you are 60 years old with 5 years of service, you may retire from the University. If this is an option you would like to explore further, please contact: your campus benefits representative.

21 If I’m not vested yet, do I get service credit during my layoff period?
No

22 If I am vested when I go into layoff status, do I receive service credit during my layoff period?
No

23 Is it possible to reach retirement requirements (i.e. service credits, and/or age) during the layoff period, and then retire?
It is possible depending on the situation. The employee would have to be already vested in the plan as you don’t receive creditable service while in layoff status. And the employee would have to be over age 55 as the plan require the member to have received at least 1 year of service credit after attaining age 54. Contact your campus benefit representative for additional information specific to your situation.

24 Are employees with academic appointments as defined by CR&R 310.20 eligible for transition assistance?
No, employees who hold academic appointments (regular and non-regular) have fixed term appointments and cannot be laid off prior to the end of the appointment date. Thus they are not eligible for layoff and not eligible for transition assistance.

Career & Employment Guidance

General Information
The following information provides practical and accessible transitional resources to individuals experiencing a layoff. Many of these sources offer no-cost or low-cost quality alternatives to many of the more costly services available to job seekers.

Getting Started
Tips to Improve Your Job Search

▪ First things first, update your resume and cover letter. There are many free online and local resources who offer resume and cover letter development.

▪ Explore your career options and plan your job search. Utilize the career exploration & assessment resources we’ve assembled to get you started on the right track.

▪ Monitor your online time: We’ve all experienced the phenomena of “online creep” where you log on to get one piece of information and three hours later, you’re still surfing the computer. Decide in advance how much time you need to spend online and then stick to it. If needed, set a timer to remind yourself that it’s time to move on to other activities.

▪ Sign up for personal “job agents”: Many sites now offer “personal job agents” that can automate your job search for you. After registering information about the specific type of job you are looking for, the agent notifies you by e-mail when jobs are posted on their database that meet your criteria. You can then apply for any position directly with the employer.

▪ Follow up your online correspondence: Don’t sit around passively waiting for the phone to ring after you respond to a job posting. Take the initiative and follow-up by phone several days later to check on the status of your application. This one action can distinguish you from the competition and get you an interview.

▪ Use the job boards to scope out companies in active hiring mode: Do you repeatedly see ads for multiple positions within the same company? Apply directly to those firms even if you don’t see a specific posting within your field of expertise. Chances are they’ll need employees in a variety of positions and departments.

▪ Find jobs before they’re advertised: Read your local business journals and newspapers to identify companies that are hiring or expanding, and send them your résumé.

▪ Cast a wide net: General job boards can be useful, but don’t forget industry and trade association Web sites, which may have more targeted career opportunities.

▪ Network – online and off: Tell everyone you know that you are looking for a job, whether in-person or using professional networking Web sites.

▪ Manage your digital footprint: Think your friends are the only people who viewed those less-than-professional vacation photos you posted online? Think again. With a few mouse clicks, potential employers can dig up information about you on blogs, personal Web sites and social-networking site profiles. Make sure you do a thorough self-search and take any necessary corrective action.

▪ Customize: Tailor your résumé and cover letter for each opportunity. Employers want to see why you’re the right person for their job.
- Enhance your marketability: Find out what skills are most in demand and take steps to give yourself an edge in these areas. Focus on sharpening your functional as well as your interpersonal skills.

- Maximize the research capability of the internet: The internet is the ultimate research tool. You can find out just about everything you need to know about companies and industries of interest – use that information to gain a competitive edge in your correspondence and interviews.

- Track breaking business news on the internet: Has a company just received a new round of venture capital or are they headed for bankruptcy? Knowing this information can help you separate hot prospects from sinking ships. Google has a wonderful news alert feature that can automate this process for you.

- Sign up for online newsletters: Companies, industries, special interest groups and associations all publish online newsletters that contain juicy, up-to-date tidbits on emerging trends, challenges and recent news. Use this information to distinguish yourself from the competition in your cover letters and interviews.

- Step outside your comfort zone: Avoid limiting your search to your current industry or field. Identify your transferable skills and experiences, and communicate them to prospective employers.

- Be flexible: Remain open to all possibilities, even if the job title, salary and benefits may not be exactly what you hoped for. Once you get your foot in the door, you will have a chance to prove yourself.

Preparing Your Application Materials

Your application materials are your first chance to make an impression on your potential employer. Materials should always be submitted as requested (cover letter, salary requirements, references, writing samples, etc.). In addition to submitting what was requested, it is equally important to submit a neat and complete application.

Application Don’ts!

- Skip completing the application fields and replace with “See Resume”
- Not signing the application
- Several cross-outs or changes
- Incomplete information (previous titles, salary, contact information for past employers)

Cover Letter Tips

- Highlight important aspects of your relevant experience and education.
- Convey your interest and enthusiasm in working for the organization.
- Focus on the employer needs (do not send a form cover letter).
- Stimulate the employer’s action (to interview you for the position).
- Attach to your resume each time you contact a potential employer.
- Address the cover letter to a specific individual within the organization (example: Mr. John Brown, Manager).
- Do not list salary requirements in your cover letter unless requested
- Check for spelling and grammar and have someone else proofread it for you

Resume Tips

A resume is a catalog of your skills and abilities and a personal advertisement that outlines your qualifications for a particular job. Your resume will be a distinct presentation of your accomplishments, experience and personality. The information you choose to include and the arrangement of the material on the page is critical in providing a good first impression to a potential employer. Remember, your resume shows the employer how you do things, especially written communication!

- Start by listing one or more accomplishments for each position held (see Power Verb document in References)
- Consider the question “So what,” i.e. the reason the achievement was valuable
- Remember that hiring managers/recruiters are reading dozens of resumes at a time; information on your resume should be uncluttered, and easy to read.
- Avoid using ‘fluff’ or ‘filler’ words to take up space.
- Check for spelling and grammar and have someone else proofread it for you
- Remember that you never get a second chance to make a good first impression.

Q: Are there any guarantees for reemployment? What does hiring preference mean?
While reemployment is not guaranteed, hiring preference within a department shall mean that if laid off departmental employees meet the stated qualifications, the department may only consider the laid off employee(s) and other employees in the same department. It is important to note that you must actively apply or bid for positions at the University in which you have interest.

Q: Is it possible that I can be hired for part time or temporary work in another unit?
If so, what happens to my layoff benefits?
Yes. The part-time/temporary work will not have any effect on your insurance benefits while your primary (benefit eligible) position remains in layoff status. You will still be eligible to continue all insurance plans you had at the time of your layoff, and are still required to make payments (check or money order) directly to the Human Resource office. These premiums cannot be deducted from the part-time pay. You do not accrue and vacation/sick leave time for the part-time position and balances remain “suspended” during this time. Neither the layoff period nor the service in the part time position are considered creditable for vesting or retirement.

Q: If I haven’t heard back from a potential employer, should I send in another application?
While additional applications are not typically needed, you should check with the organization for application instructions and how to contact for additional information.

Q: How important is follow-up communication after applying or interviewing for a job?
Take the initiative and follow-up by phone several days later to check on the status of your application. This can distinguish you from the competition and get you an interview.

Q: I don’t really want to work as a temporary employee, should I still contact a staffing service?
Absolutely! Staffing professionals can be your eyes and ears in the job market. Many agencies can also provide useful feedback on your résumé and interview skills, and help you locate permanent full-time jobs as well as temporary.

Q: What is the purpose of a career fair; how is attending going to benefit my job search?
Most career fairs are designed to provide an avenue for identifying employers who are hiring, honing your interview skills, learning industry information, gathering information about companies, networking, and collecting business cards.

Q: I’ve never been to a career fair, what should I expect?
First, dress as if you were going on an interview. You will most likely be meeting professionals you may later be interviewing with; make sure you leave a great first impression! Dress professionally, and bring several copies of your resumes to leave with potential employers.

Q: I’m not familiar with searching for a job using the internet, how is that different from looking in a newspaper?
Use a career search engine to expedite your job search. By searching all the top job search sites and company sites online you save valuable time, as many times you can apply online, ensuring that your application materials immediately. Many online career sites will allow you to search by title, industry, location, salary, and a variety of other criteria.

Professional Networking Opportunities

General Information
Studies have shown that only about 5-10% of all new jobs are posted in the classified ads or on the Internet. The other positions are filled by word of mouth. Many times Human Resources would much prefer to select a candidate whom they know not only has the skill to do the job, but also has an interest/goal to do it, and to do it for them (their organization).

What is networking?
Networking is not a way to get jobs as commonly believed; it is a way to make contacts. These contacts may eventually lead to job opportunities, but they may also lead to information sources or potential employees for you when you are in a position to hire.

Your network is made up of almost anyone you’ve ever met. Not everyone may be a part of your active network, but each person in your network has the potential to lead you to other contacts. The average professional knows 3500 people directly, and each of those people has a similar number of contacts.

The first time you meet anyone, it’s pretty unrealistic to expect that he or she will connect you to a job or become your best friend. And people would rather deal with their friends than with strangers, but all friends were strangers at some point, it’s just a matter of time, manners and occasions to bring a relationship about. So, if you meet with someone that you’ve been connected with, don’t assume that it will be an instant success. Repeated interaction encourages cooperation. People who repeatedly come into contact with each other tend to develop positive relationships.

Relationships are a basic human need. Helping other people fulfill their need for relationships helps you, too. (This goes along with what you talked about – the idea that people want to see others be successful.) When you network, you are not looking for a specific job opening; instead you are looking to build a relationship.

People often tend to think of networking merely as going to functions. Yes, going to functions can be a place to network, however you must realize that you are building your network everywhere, and all the time.

Some Tips/Rules for Networking
- “Elevator speech, two-minute pitch, 30-second commercial” → although you might hear these buzzwords, they don’t give the best impression of networking; what they’re trying to say is this…when you make the connection, accurately (yet concisely) define who you are and what you want; speak succinctly about your talents, skills and career goals for the future
- Instead of asking someone for a job, listen to their advice; most people love talking about themselves, so use this to your advantage
- If you’re shy, you shouldn’t change your personality; put yourself in situations where you’ll have the opportunity to meet others (volunteering, job shadowing program, etc.); look into utilizing the online networking opportunities as a place to start
- Remember that you need to take control…do not force it upon the person with whom you are “connecting;” ask for their advice, ask for names of individuals whom they might be able/willing to connect you with (then you do the leg-work), do not take up more time than what you asked for, ask for permission to contact them in the future
- Follow-up, follow-up, follow-up…don’t ever lose touch with your contacts (i.e. – professors, previous managers and co-workers). Let them know what you’re up to, and inquire about what they’re up to. If you meet with someone, or if your contact has provided you a bridge/opening to another contact, remember to thank them both. This will keep you at the front of their minds; and if you don’t, this may be the quickest way to lose a contact.

Networking is NOT...
- solely a business card exchange (makes only “cardboard connections”)
- a sales presentation
- finding someone to personally drop your resume into HR
- sending someone your resume/credentials and never following up
- schmoozing
- making the contact do all the work

Unemployment Insurance

General Information
Some details regarding Unemployment Insurance have been provided below; however your best first resource is to read through the informational brochure. http://www.dolir.mo.gov/es/ui-benefits/M-INF-170-11-AI.pdf

To qualify for unemployment benefits filed on January 1, 2008 or later a worker must:

- Have worked in covered employment and earned wages of at least $1,500 in one quarter of the base period and there must be wages in the other quarters of the base period which total at least $750 to establish a minimum claim. A worker’s base period is the 12-month period consisting of the first four of the last five completed calendar quarters before the beginning date of the claim.
- The total wages in the base period must be at least one and one-half times the worker’s high quarter wages. The worker may still be qualified if he or she has wages in at least two quarters of the base period and the total of these wages equal $18,000.
- Be out of work due to no fault of his or her own.

If you are an insured worker and qualify for benefits your weekly benefit amount will be 4% of the average of your two highest quarters. This amount cannot be more than $320 per week. The most you can receive during the benefit year is 26 times your weekly benefit amount or one-third of your base period wages, whichever is less. When figuring your maximum benefit amount using either method, the base period wages are limited to 26 times your weekly benefit amount.

Volunteer Opportunities

General Information
People are much more likely to get an interview through personal contact, like networking through social groups or volunteer opportunities. Volunteer somewhere that will help you develop your interests. If you like the arts, volunteer at an art museum. Example: If you like landscaping, volunteer at an arboretum. Sometimes volunteer work provides more of the skills an employer is looking for than your paid work experiences.
