Knollman, Sanders win election

Rick Jackoway

The ticket of Mark Knollman and Yates Sanders won 43 per cent of the vote in the race for student body president and vice president, respectively, to win Central Council's general elections held April 9 and 10.

Knollman, a sophomore, polled 381 votes (38.1 per cent) in the presidential election. Second place went to Gerald Hall with 246 votes (24.6). Chrystal Smith won third with 212 (21.2 per cent), followed by Bob Dilg, 135 (13.5 per cent), Bob Poole with 15 (1.5 per cent), and Kevin Chrysler 8 (.9 per cent).

In the race for vice-president, Sanders received 420 votes (48.4 per cent) to lead all candidates. Steve Graham won second with 206 (23.7 per cent), then Richard Harris, 155 (17.8 per cent), Kevin Chrysler 87 (10 per cent).

"We are very confident about the outcome," Knollman said after the announcement was made Tuesday night. "We were afraid that there might have to be a recount, but with the wide margin of victory, I think the result is clear," Sanders said.

For Central Council representatives the winners are: Cortez Lofton, 361; Dan Henry, 296; Dianne Belaska, 296; Michell

McMurray, 294; Sharon Angle, 288; Martha Casey, 288; Robin M. Boyce, 279; Bob Bailot, 279; Cliff Wilke, 278; Gwendolyn Luster, 272; Mary Ann Lavite, 261; Sean Duffy, 257; David Pearson, 257; Stephania Reskaz, 253; Michael Haynes, 247; Dave Johnson, 240;

Hugh Phillips, 236; Kirwin Marlo Roach, 228; Aletrice Ferguson, 226; Laura Ruhrwien, 217; and Diane Thomas, 217.

The following did not receive sufficient votes: Don Schaller, 209; Tom Reinsel, 207; Doris Botes, 204; Charles Don Donley, 202; Lynn Dennis, 201;

James E. Cook, 198; Kevin A. Chrisler, 196; Daniel Sayle, 192; Jeanine Mollof, 183; Mary E. Pierce, 169;

Ed Ershen, 168; Joe Tator, 162; Michael Barron, 159; Gerard Burke, 143; and Christian Tompras, 124.

The losers will act as alternatives if any of the top 21 step down. Originally only 20 positions were open for representatives, but because of the tie for the twentieth position spot and because the student body was only two short of needing another representative, Pat Con-naughton, election manager, said the 21st position would be established.

The election heated up somewhat Tuesday morning, when a lit cigarette accidentally fell into a locked ballot box in SSB. In case the ballots might burn, forcing a new election, a search insured for the key to the box. Ten minutes later the cigarette was retrieved and it was found that no ballots were damaged.

The election pulled 998 votes, 185 votes shy of UMSL's record of 1,183 votes set two years ago.

"It was great to see the interest this year," Knollman said. Last year 23 people ran for the 23 positions, this year 43 people ran for 24 positions.

Knollman said his first step as president will be to organize a retreat for new Council representatives. Over the summer, they said that they would work on possibly changing the name of Central Council, looking into corporations that might be interested in donating to the University Center expansion, and establishing a new Council constitution.

The name change, Knollman said, would hopefully provide the Council with a new image.

The present constitution has caused trouble, especially in procedural matters this year. Not the least of these is in the transition between the current and future administrators. Tuesday night, Knollman and Sanders said they were not sure whether they would take over office immediately or whether they would have to wait a week or more.

Knollman and Sanders said they plan to spend some of the summer trying to get donations for the University Center expansion. The expansion has stagnated recently because of problems with obtaining bonds for the expansion.

Women's Center Board selected

Jim Wallace

The UMSL Women's Center announced the results of elections for its Governing Board last week.

Undergraduate representatives will be Barbara Bennett, Lynn Dennis and Crystal Smith. The graduate student representative will be Vickie English.

Non-exempt staff will be represented by Doloris Licklider and exempt staff will be by Ann Kenney.

Faculty members serving on the Board will be Marcia Dolbey and Stephanie Foss, assistant professor of philosophy.

The minority interest representative position was won by Gwen Luster. Luster did not conduct a campaign but won with write-in votes. She has not yet accepted the position.

CAD, '80-81 calendar reviewed

Jim Wallace

The University Senate approved a 1980-81 UMSL calendar proposal in a meeting held April 10. The proposed calendar, subject to approval by the Board of Curators, institutes three optional days, replacing the present stop days.

The optional days may be used for either regular class or intensive study days. Each instructor will have the power to decide how those days will be used.

Presently the stop days cannot be used for regular class days. The change would allow for an almost 15 week semester, instead of the present 14 week semester.

Some senators said that the finals should not start immediately after classes as they are scheduled to. The motion passed, however, 25 for and 22 against.

The Senate also received several reports on the Center for Academic Development (CAD). The Center was established in 1977, on an experimental basis for two years. The proposition for the program was introduced in a Senate meeting in December 1976. The two years have passed and a decision should be reached at the next Senate meeting as to whether the program will be continued and in what form.

The program was the result of a plan initiated to combat the problem of declining SAT scores in high schools around the [See "Senate" page 5]

Jazz course offered

St. Louis radio personality and jazz historian Charlie Menees will teach a non-credit course, "Jazz at the Keyboard," beginning April 18. The course will meet on successive Wednesdays through May 18, from 8:30-9:30pm in the J.C. Penney Building.

In the course, Menees will utilize his thousands of recordings, taped interviews, and books covering the period from ragtime to the present, including some of St. Louis's outstanding jazz pianists. Performers and composers to be studied include Scott Joplin, "Fats" Waller, Willit "The Lion" Smith and modern-day greats such as Dave Brubeck, Thelonious Monk and Errol Garner.

Menees, known as Cactus Charlie, has had his own jazz program on St. Louis radio for the past seven years. He is currently host of KMOX Radio's "Jazz Under the Arch" program heard on Saturday nights, and before that he was heard on Big Sand Bash and Jazz Freeway on UMSL's radio station, KWML. He also covered jazz for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and was the St. Louis correspondent for Down Beat magazine.

Fee for the course is $25. For information, call Deborah Factory at 453-5961.

Wilson to lecture here

Novelist and literary historian Angus Wilson will lecture at UMSL on a subject he knows well—himself. His autobiographical talk is scheduled for April 19, at 12:30pm in room 75 of the J.C. Penney Building on the UMSL campus.

Wilson will lead an informal symposium at 11am April 20, in 331 SSB. Both events are free and open to the public.

Walter to speak here

Father Walter J. Ong, S.J., immediate past president of the Modern Language Association and professor of English and humanities in psychiatry at St. Louis University, will speak at UMSL April 18. His talk is scheduled for 2pm in 318 Lucas hall.

The subject of Ong's lecture will be "Writing as Technology." Father Ong is an internationally-known scholar whose writings on language and the effects of changing technology on communications have been influential. Born in Kansas City, he studied at Rockhurst College, St. Louis University, and Harvard University.

Elections scheduled

The Evening College Council is holding its membership election April 17 and 18. The members shall be elected to the Council by the students enrolled in the Evening College.

Council members must be enrolled in the Evening College and must be in good academic standing.

Anyone interested in becoming a member should fill out an application immediately. The deadline is April 16. Students may pick up applications at the Evening College office, 324 Lucas Hall.

As of this writing the candidates are: Flo Barbaro, Alicia Brown, Melvin Bryant, James Cook, Angela Evens, Arlene Geiser, Barb Harington, Patrick Lane, Claudia Reed and Jeff Thomas.

Ballot boxes will be located in the university Center, SSB building, and room 324 Lucas Hall.

The polls will be open from 5-8pm both days.

Representative Gephardt to speak at luncheon

U.S. Representative Richard A. Gephardt will be the luncheon speaker at a metropolitan forum on Taxpayers in Revolt April 23. The forum, sponsored by the UMSL Center for Metropolitan Studies, will be held in room 126 J.C. Penney Building.

Also appearing on the forum, which runs from 8:30-2pm will be John Shannon, assistant director of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations; Stae Senator Harriett Woods; James T. O'Flynn, president of the Community Program Development Corporation.

Moderator of the program will be James H. Laue, director of the UMSL urban center, and serving as a commentator will be Donald Phares, associate director of the center. The metropolitan forum series provides an opportunity for analysis of the way St. Louisans resolve community conflicts.

Cost of the program is $6, which includes lunch and educational materials. For further information or to register contact Dave Klostermann at 453-5961.

History conference to be held

The 21st annual Missouri Conference on History will be held on the campus of the University of Missouri-Rolla April 27-28.

Program participants are members of the history faculties of high schools, colleges, and universities in Missouri and eight other states, and state and national archive agencies.

Guest speaker at the banquet Friday evening is Henry Steele Commager, professor of history at Amherst College, Amherst Mass. A prolific author and editor, Commager is prominent in the field of education for materials and guidance provided in the area of American history. He will speak on "History and the Great Community of Learning." His presence at the conference is supported, in part, by a grant from the Missouri Committee for the Humanities, Inc.

"Missouri's Congressional Delegation 1965-1975" is the title of the luncheon address Saturday, April 28. Guest speaker is former Missouri Congressman, William L. (Bill) Hungate. A native of Pike County, he spent 12 years as a U.S. Representative from the ninth district, serving as chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Criminal Justice and the Subcommittee on Activities of Regulatory Agencies of the House Committee on Small Business.

Fee for the conference is $5 per person. Banquet tickets are $6 each and luncheon tickets $4 each.

The conference is an extension activity of UMR's social sciences department, history section.

Murray receives grant

An UMSL chemist has received a $274,612 federal grant to try to determine why people who live in areas with high levels of air pollution have a greater incidence of cancer, particularly lung cancer.

Robert W. Murray, an authority on ozone chemistry and chairperson of the UMSL chemistry department, received the three-year grant from the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences for a study of "Ozone Chemistry and Chemical Carcinogenesis." Ozone is a chemical found in the atmosphere and is a component of pollution.

Murray said the study will attempt to create a laboratory model which "mimics" the body's enzyme system. "One of the enzymes produced by the liver has the function of oxidizing a type of hydrocarbon that exists in air pollution and cigarettes, he explained. "Once oxidized this material becomes water soluble," he said, "thus making it easier for the body to dispose of it."

In their natural state, these hydrocarbons are referred to as "pre-carcinogens," according to Murray. "Only after they are oxidized to they become 'ultimate carcinogens,' or the agents which produce cancer." Murray said scientists know that the enzyme produced by the liver acts as a "catalyst" for the oxidation process.

"If we can construct a chemical system to produce the same effect, it would confirm that it's possible for the ultimate carcinogen to be produced before the pre-carcinogen enters the body," he said. Murray suspects this situation exists in highly polluted atmospheres. "The circumstances are highly suggestive that this could and does happen," he said.

Fraternity wants blood

The Beta Alpha Phi (BAP) fraternity is sponsoring a blood drive to be held April 18 and 19. The Red Cross will be manning the drive, which will be held in room 222 of the J.C. Penney Building from 9:30am-2:30pm on both days. Any student, faculty, or staff member between ages 17 and 66 and over 109 pounds that has not given blood in the last eight weeks is eligible to give blood. Eric Cohen, BAP member, said that this year the Red Cross will be better staffed to take the blood donors. Last year, Cohen said, there were long delays for some participants because of understaffing. The fraternity is setting a goal of 170 donors a day this year. The blood can be used to treat several diseases as well as becoming part of St. Louis' blood bank. Red cells are used in surgery and in the treatment of anemia. White cells defend the body against diseases by attacking bacteria, and platelets are the cells that control bleeding by forming plugs in broken blood vessels. They are used in the treatment of cancer and leukemia to replace cells destroyed by chemotherapy.

How would "Army officer" look on your job application?

Employers can afford to be choosy these days. There are a lot more college grads around than jobs available for them. Many companies are finding young people with the qualities they want among Army ROTC graduates. Army ROTC students learn to lead, to manage people and handle equipment. Then as active Army or Reserve officers, they take on more instant responsibility than is available in most other jobs right out of college. So it's no wonder that employers, looking for demonstrated leadership, rate "Army officer" above most other qualifications. A college graduate who's been an Army officer has more to offer. And most employers know it!

Proposed '80-81 calendar impractical, inconsiderate

The University Senate approved a 1980-81 calendar proposal in a meeting held April 10. The proposed calendar would institute three 'optional days' at the end of each semester in place of the present two stop days used for intensive study before finals. 'Optional days' will be used either as class days or as intensive study days. Each instructor will have the power to decide how those days will be used.

The change comes as a result of many instructors (especially those instructing in mathematics, sciences, and foreign languages) desiring a full 15-week class calendar. The present calendar operates on a 14-week semester.

The 'optional days' proposal presents a serious problem for students.

If instructors choose to hold classes on the three designated 'optional days', a student could conceivably have his last class after 10pm one day and a final scheduled early the next morning. That possibility is not a remote one. The calendar does not allow a student ample time to prepare for finals.

It is not the prospect of a 15-week class schedule that is objectionable, but rather the probable elimination of the intensive study days.

The proposed calendar must be approved by the Board of Curators before instituted. The curators have sufficient time to recognize the impracticality of such a calendar and should recognize that the UMSL Senate is not necessarily a body representing student interests.

Irate about police behavior

Dear Editor:

Are the UMSL police above the law? Read this letter and tell me they're not.

Last week I received a ticket for using Garage Two's entrance ramp as an exit. Following Thoreau's example I calmly accepted the consequence of breaking what I consider to be an unjust law. After all, the ramp is easily wide enough to accommodate opposing traffic and is clearly the most direct route off the top level of the three-level structure.

The very next day, however, as I lawfully entered the garage on the same entrance ramp I nearly collided with an UMSL police car unlawfully exiting. Furthermore, he was making a right turn from the left lane. No, he was not in hot pursuit but merely seeking a fresh crop of illegal parkers.

Is not the police department subject to the same traffic regulations as the rest of the campus population? The double standard is illegal, immoral, intolerable and impeachable. My respect for UMSL's law enforcement officials is shattered.

Brokenheartedly,

Writer disgusted with university litter, mess

Dear Editor:

In a recent publication of the UMSL Current, a picture of the trash behind some of the buildings was shown. I would like to comment on the situation in general.

Some people say it is because physical plant has been cut funds. Some people say it is because "we" all lack pride in the university. "We," being the faculty, staff and students. Maybe all of us should look into the situation and try to correct the problem of the appearance of the university, inside the buildings and out.

Neighborhoods have clean-up weeks. Perhaps the university should have one also. Perhaps each building could be considered a "neighborhood". During a certain week that building, inside and out, would be cleaned. The proper department should be in charge of scheduling window cleaning, wall washing, fix up things that need repair (such as molding around the floors), etc. Ground crews should be scheduled to clean up around the building scheduled to be "cleaned up" that week. (In scheduling, we hope that the floors will be waxed after the rooms have been cleaned. Somehow they usually get waxed before.) May I add that secretaries on the campus have taken the dust rags to file cabinets for years. Not just since the budget cuts, even before, just in order to get the job "done". Now, after many years of doing the job, it is considered "other related duties" for a secretary to clean desk, wash file cabinets, and when all else fails, sweep the floor.

Perhaps the chancellor and our physical plant director should take the 'grand' tour of the entire campus. All buildings, every room (including restrooms) should be seen by both. Evaluations should be made as to what should be done, then DO IT!

In order to save physical plant funds, wouldn't it be cheaper to wash the walls with ammonia water than repaint all of them? Some of the buildings have coffee stains running down the walls. What an impression on visitors. Faster to wash than repaint, cheaper for ammonia than paint.

Boxes of junk in the hallways should be thrown out if not put away. Broken chairs should either be repaired or thrown out. The trash needs to be pulled out of the landscaping. Or is there any 'landscaping' under all the trash anymore? Once the university has spent the money to purchase new trees, why don't they water them? The trees along the East Campus Drive have been replaced year after year. They usually get watered when they are planted. If they don't survive, replace them next year.

We do have a beautiful campus under all the present mess. Money could be saved by taking care of what we already have. Yes, this campus does lack pride. Look at other campuses, ours should get the prize or be renamed....the Normandy Mess.

Wants details on Slaten

Dear Editor:

A recent issue of the Current contained a photograph showing a university instructor, Kevin Slaten, engaged in a fistfight with a referee during an intramural basketball game. This incident is particularly interesting in view of Mr. Slaten's principal occupation. As a junior member of the Channel four television sports reporting team, he frequently editorializes on the good sportmanship, or lack of it, displayed by people associated with sports. For example, you may recall the criticism State's head football coach, Woody Hayes, after Hayes punched a player during a post-season bowl game.

For whatever reason, your coverage of Slaten's conduct was limited to a photograph. Would you kindly give us all the details in a story or an editorial?

country. To fight this problem the Senate Ad Hoc Committee on Skill Development proponents of CAD—submitted three choices that the University could make in response to the situation.

The first was to refuse admission to any academically deficient students. The second was to refer all students doing poorly in proficiency exams to outside resources. The third option, while keeping policy with university admission standards, would provide help to those students lacking in basic skills. The latter proposition was passed, and the program was funded with an $86,000 budget.

The first part of Tuesday's report was given by Jon C. Marshall, author of a CAD Evaluation Report. Marshall said that the report was presented for information purposes and that the final section includes a detailed list of recommendations. Copies of the report were passed out to all Senate members.

The floor was then given to professor John J. Boswell, chairperson of the Ad Hoc CAD Committee. Boswell gave a brief introduction to his group's recommendations. He stated, "What we've done is given an overview of problems as we saw them and given recommendations." Boswell went on to say that a couple of the recommendations regarded the placement tests and possible future presentations to area high school students.

The information for Marshall's report was received mainly from three sources: the student information system; a survey of a large number of students; and questioning a random sample of 300 students.

Boswell said he would, "enjoy sitting down with small groups of faculty, students, or administrators," to discuss the report. "Obviously we like CAD and would like to see it continue," Boswell concluded on behalf of his Committee.

The report will be opened for discussion at the next meeting on May 8.

Also in Tuesday's meeting, Chancellor Arnold B. Grobman gave an up-dated budget report which cited Governor Teasdale as recommending a 7.6 per cent increase in the university's budget for the 1979-80 school year. This increase translates to about $10.5 million.

The Chancellor was "delighted with student interest and enthusiasm but concerned about the facts being correct." He went on to describe his interpretation of the problem. He said that since actual numbers would not be known until July, the Fiscal Resources Committee recommended that deans and directors prepare two contingencies. The two mock budgets would describe the best and worst possible financial situations. The governor's recommendation was used as the worst—a 7.6 per cent increase and the recommendation made by the Coordinating Board for Higher Education (CBHE), for a 11.5 per cent increase—about $16 million. He went on to say that if a seven per cent increase in salary raises and another seven per cent inflationary increase was assumed, the governor's recommendation would require a decrease of four per cent in the operating budget, whereas CBHE allowed a two per cent increase in same budget."

He then said, "Somewhere in one of our colleges communications broke down and a rumor began that a four per cent cut was mandated. This is wrong." He said that the effectiveness of an interested student body can be "seriously eroded—or ignored—if basic facts are wrong."

He said, "I never expected to stand in front of any large group and defend the governor." But, he continued, when students questioned him at Jefferson Junior College in Hillsboro, Mo., about a four per cent budget cut, he was noticeably at a disadvantage, because he didn't recommend any such cut.

Grobman reported that he foresaw a 6.5-7 percent increase for the 1979-80 budget. This would allow money for inflationary costs and for instituting some new programs. "So," Grobman concluded, "it is not a report of doom and gloom." Later a senator asked him if the students helped the situation in regards to Teasdale's decision. Grobman replied that while he was "delighted with student reaction to the problem, I don't think it helped in the Senate or the House."

Smith thanks supporters

Dear Editor,

Please allow me to use this "vehicle of expression that is open to all students" to thank my friends for their support these past few months. I hope you all learned as many things during this election as I did and you're proud of the fight we put up.

I'd also like to add that, in my opinion, working with Cortez Lofton has been a very enjoyable experience. I may not have always agreed with him, but I admire the way he stood up to criticism (sometimes unjust) and respected him for not resigning or giving up under the pressure of academics or opponents. I just hope the next administration is willing to sacrifice as much.

Thank you again.

Very respectfully yours,

UMMSL Week offers varied entertainment

Andrea Haussmann

To illustrate the progress UMMSL has made in the past 15 years and to explain to the community what UMMSL was and has become, UMMSL Week has been announced.

This series of events from April 21-29 will be held on campus "as a culmination of the celebration of UMMSL's fifteenth anniversary," said Sonnie Meizer of University Relations.

UMMSL Week includes film series, band festivals, sports events, contests and other forms of entertainment for UMMSL students and members of the community.

Serendipity Weekend is from April 21-22. According to Pat Sullivan, coordinator of the weekend, its purpose is to "raise money for the Commons Project and to draw prospective students to the campus." The weekend offers game and food booths, a carnival with amusement rides, campus tours, a blue grass festival, a varsity baseball doubleheader and a Gateway Senior High School Band Festival.

Because UMMSL Week is the culmination of UMMSL's fifteenth anniversary celebration, this is its first year. "It is thought that if all goes well, we might offer it annually," Sullivan said.

"The Psi Sigma Epsilon fraternity is acting as the administrative body for Serendipity Weekend," Sullivan said. "They've been doing all the legwork—promotion, distribution of money, contacting people."

UMSL birth announcement

For the third time in four years the student newspaper at the University of Missouri of St. Louis will have a different name.

The Mizzou News, formerly the Tiger Cub, will now be called the UMSL Current, according to Editor-in-Chief Barbara Duepner.

The change resulted from pressure put on the newspaper by some administration members and students who wished to break the connection between this campus and the Columbia campus that they felt the use of the word "Mizzou" implied. The name, UMSL Current was chosen for its association with the recently adopted mascot, "Riverman."

Kieth discusses sexism

Vickey Keith, coordinator of the University of Missouri-Columbia Women's Center, will lead a discussion on "Sexism in the Classroom" April 13, from 11:30am-1pm in room 75 of the J.C. Penney Building. This discussion is the second in a series of lunch discussions sponsored by the UMSL Women's Studies program.

"Women do not always recognize it when they are being put down because they are women," said Keith. "When they are aware of the 'put down' they need to know how to respond in order to keep their self-respect and change the other person's behavior." Keith has led similar seminars on "Verbal Self-Defense" and "Sexual Harrassment" at UMC and elsewhere.

Keith received her master's in counseling from Western Illinois University. She taught women's studies, psychology, and counseling at the University of Maine and University of Iowa. She also taught for the University of Maryland in Japan.

Keith's appearance at UMSL is sponsored by the International Women's Decade Speakers' Bureau on the Status of Women at Stephens College in Columbia. The Bureau is supported by a grant from the Missouri Committee for the Humanities, Inc., the state-based arm of the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more information, call 453-5380.

Walters excels as artist

Mary Bagley

Sylvia Walters has had a successful and varied career in art.

Walters, chairperson of UMSL's art department, has many of her art works on constant display throughout the country and has won numerous awards on some of her exhibits.

Walters specializes in wood cuts and print-making although she isn't limited to those areas. Walters has won acclaim in the media of lithographs, collages, woodcuts and book cover and text designs.

A few of her recent awards include a Purchase Award from Color Print USA, for woodcut entitled "Portrait With a White Hat." The woodcut is on display at the Texas Technical University Gallery.

"Because of the elaborate techniques that I use for my woodcuts," she said, "it takes me about half a year to do one print."

Traditionally, a woodcut is colored by carving a separate block of wood for each color. Walters has devised a different method.

"In my method I use the same block of wood for each color," Walters said. "For one of my woodcuts, I use about 30-40 colors. The results are extremely satisfying even though the production is limited."

Walters worked as a freelance book cover designer and with the University of Wisconsin Press as a book cover and text designer.

Text designs include the size of the page, type style and book cloth. Many of Walters' designs have won awards in the Midwestern Book Competition.

Walters is the first chairperson of the UMSL art department, which is in its second year after having had an "amicable divorce with the music department," said Walters. "We've come a long way and still have a long way to go. I'm confident of the work the department is doing here."

"The part of the art department most students are familiar with is Gallery 210 and the beginning level art history courses which average 500 students per semester."

The art history program offers a bachelor of arts degree, and Walters hopes that the art department will someday offer a degree in studio art.

"There are two main reasons why the department doesn't offer a degree in studio art. The university doesn't have the full range of facilities, and it doesn't have sufficient staff. There's a lot of interest in the making of art," she said.

Walters mainly teaches studio art courses. This semester she's teaching drawing and a media and techniques course. Next year she'll teach design, a course which she looks forward to.

"I like teaching beginning level art students. As a person becomes more mature, the teaching of art stops—it becomes more guiding than teaching," she said.

"By teaching beginners, my work becomes more influential, and I like the interchange with students. Teaching help me with my art work."

Walter's work is on continuous exhibit at various national galleries such as the Associated American Artists Gallery in New York City, the Van Straaten Gallery in Chicago and the Graphics Gallery in San Francisco.

Walters has also been active in community art organizations. She is a member of the board for the Art and Coordinating Council for the Area (ACCA), an organization composed primarily of professional artists. Walters is also the national board member for the Women's Caucus for Art.

Her office is surrounded with prints, drawings and other forms of art work. She displays a woodcut that is one of the first she made when an undergraduate at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

"I keep this woodcut as a reminder of the time I first started as an artist," she said.

And since then, Walters has come a long way and accomplished much in her career both as a teacher and as an artist.

BUILD BUSCH MOUNTAIN

Win! A BUSCH BASCH For You And 100 Friends.

We're looking for five teams of college students* to build BUSCH Mountains during the '79 BUSCH BASCH Pre-Game Show, Monday night — April 30 at Busch Stadium. You'll be right on the field with "If I Can't Have You" Yvonne Elliman and racing greats Buddy Baker, Cale Yarborough, Donnie Allison and Bobby Allison. They'll be singing and racing and you'll be building a BUSCH Mountain (out of beer cases) while 50,000 fans cheer you on. WOW!

Here's How To Get In On The Action

If you wish to be considered to participate in the Build BUSCH Mountain Contest, here's what to do:

Get your team together (two guys and two girls) and show up at Busch Stadium at noon Saturday, April 21. Wait next to Stan Musial until our judges arrive. Five teams will be selected. You'll be judged on the basis of originality, team spirit and BUSCH identification. (HINT: Come as a Mountain or BUSCH can, bring signs, banners, get crazy!)

Grand Prize — Your Own BUSCH Basch Party

Our five selected teams will build BUSCH Mountains at the '79 BUSCH Basch. The team that builds the biggest, tallest, mightiest BUSCH Mountain out of BUSCH cases wins a BUSCH Basch for 100 friends. This includes live music, food and BUSCH. Plus, everybody gets official BUSCH racing jackets, coolers, t-shirts and more.

O. K. now, head for the stadium (April 21-noon). There you may be chosen to build BUSCH Mountains at the BUSCH Basch. Then, you may head for your very own BUSCH Basch.

Reach for the mountains and you'll be there — BUSCH.

*All participants must be of legal drinking age.

Rivermen battle weather; seek victories

Jeff Kuchno

For the UMSL Rivermen baseball squad, victories have not come as freely as might be expected, but then games have not come all that frequently either. The reason for this has been the bad weather.

At the start of this week, the Rivermen had won seven and lost five for a total of 12 games. However, UMSL has been rained out of 16 games so far this season, eight of which will not be replayed.

"The bad weather has definitely hurt us," said UMSL head coach Jim Dix. "It (the weather) benefits the weaker teams, because the stronger teams like ourselves play better when we play every day."

Dix alluded that the weather has been detrimental to the Rivermen in certain areas, particularly defense and pitching.

"Our defense and pitching has suffered because of the weather," he said. "We haven't had one practice outside yet, except for one intrasquad game at the beginning of this year. We haven't been able to take infield practice outside and our pitchers haven't had the benefit of pitching on the mound."

Offensively, however, Dix needn't worry. The Rivermen are one of the most potent offensive teams in the nation led by shortstop Skip Mann (.571) and outfielder Jim Lockett (.511).

Mann, a definite pro prospect, is among the team leaders with 24 hits, 4 doubles, and 14 RBI. Lockett, a junior from Jennings, leads the team in runs scored with 19 and stolen bases with 11.

Greg Ready, a two-time all-American, is batting a respectable .333, but that average does not reflect what the swift-footed outfielder is capable of hitting. In the last two seasons, Ready has batted .417 and .459, respectively. However, he has swiped eight bases this season without being caught.

Freshman outfielder-designated hitter Mike Stellern leads the team with 16 RBI, and is batting .378. He was a definite plus for UMSL on the season-opening southern trip.

Since that trip, the Rivermen have won four of six games, beginning with a doubleheader sweep of SIU-Edwardsville, 4-2 and 9-6, on April 3.

Two days later, the Rivermen hosted McKendree College and bowed to the Bearcats in a 19-13 slugfest. It is obvious that pitching (or the lack of it) doomed the Rivermen that day. "Anytime you score 13 runs in a game, you should win," reasoned Dix. "Our pitchers were walking batters and then giving up home runs," he said. "Our pitchers just haven't been able to get the ball over the plate with any consistency."

The next day, the Rivermen edged Southwest Missouri State 10-9, and then split a doubleheader with the Bears, 14-9 and 15-18, on April 7.

Although the Rivermen have had trouble putting a string of victories together, Dix still feels this is the best ball club he's ever coached.

"We are capable of beating anybody we play," he said. "I think when we get some good weather and play everyday, we will be mighty tough to beat."

"I still believe this is the best defensive and offensive club I've ever coached," said UMSL's fourth-year head mentor. "It all depends on our pitchers. They will be the key."

RIVERMAN NOTES: Sophomore Keith Kimball has been UMSL's most consistent pitcher to date with a 3-0 record.

UMSL will meet Southeast Missouri State this Saturday at 1pm, here at UMSL.

EIU captures UMSL softball tournament

Jeff Kuchno

Eastern Illinois University won four straight games, including a 2-1 victory over UMSL, to capture the first annual University of Missouri-St. Louis women's softball tournament April 6-8 at the Harwood Sports Complex in St. Louis.

The Panthers defeated the University of Missouri-Columbia 7-0 in the championship game Sunday. They were led by catcher-first baseman Jan Cusac (the tourney's Most Valuable Player,) and Bonnie Kraemer (the tourney's leading pitcher.)

UMSL, meanwhile, displayed some talent of its own in the three-day event. Patti Crowe, a freshman outfielder from Rosary, was named all-tournament for her performance both offensively and defensively. Crowe led UMSL in the tournament with six hits, most of them coming in clutch situations.

"Patti did very well all around," said UMSL head coach Tonja Adreon. "She provided us with good play consistently."

UMSL opened the tourney with a 3-2 win over William Woods, and proceeded to clobber Chicago State 18-0 in a second round game.

In that game, Michelle Siemer and Mary Dorsey combined for a no-hitter, the second one for UMSL this season. Siemer claims the other one with a solo effort against Stephens College earlier this season.

UMSL also defeated Northern Illinois University, 7-2, before bowing out of the tourney with a 2-1 loss to Indiana State.

Members of the all-tournament team are Patti Sutton, catcher (Meramec); Kraemer, pitcher (EIU); Elaine Fields, first base (Central Missouri State); Jennifer Haley, second base (EIU); Jane Grebner, third base (EIU); Laura Futhy, shortstop (Missouri); and Patti Crowe (UMSL); Kathy Anderson, (Central Missouri); and Mary Ivy (Meramec), outfielders.

UMSL signs two more prep stars

Two more outstanding prep field hockey players, Diane Callier of Riverview Gardens and Becky Streeter of Ladue, have signed letters of intent to attend UMSL.

Callier played three years for Riverview Gardens High School and received a school award this past season for her outstanding play.

Streeter played four years for Ladue High School and led her team this past season with 15 assists and three goals.

Bartow named new head basketball coach

Jeff Kuchno

After a search of nearly two months, UMSL has named Tom Bartow as the new head basketball coach.

Bartow replaces Chuck Smith, who announced Feb. 13 that he would step down as basketball coach at the end of the season to concentrate on his duties as

I stress the fundamentals

athletic director. Smith coached the Rivermen for 13 years and has been coach ever since basketball's inception here in 1966. Bartow now becomes the second head basketball coach ever at UMSL.

Bartow, who has been an assistant to Smith the past two seasons, was recommended by the five-member Search Committee.

Members of the Committee were Frederick Wilke, math professor; Warren Bellis, professor of music; Nancy Knarr, member of the UMSL Alumni Association; Ted Struckman, UMSL athletic trainer, and Tony Bell, UMSL student and president of the UMSL Tablegamers.

The Committee reviewed the applications and then decided to interview its five final candidates. There were 46 applications for the position.

Along with Bartow, the four other finalists include Rich Grawer, head basketball coach at DeSmet; Skip Shearer, assistant coach at Drury; Gene Bess, head coach at Three Rivers Junior College; and LeRoy McClendon, assistant coach at Tulsa University.

"We wanted a coach who had proved success at the other schools, we wanted a coach who we felt would have good demonstration ability to be able to recruit, and obviously we wanted someone who knew the game of basketball," Smith said.

"The Search Committee passed its recommendation on to me. It was an excellent choice," said Smith. "I recommended Coach Bartow on to Chancellor Grobman and he concurred to hire coach Tom Bartow."

"I know we've made the right choice," said Smith. "I know because I've had the honor of working with Tom the last two years, and he has a lot of coaching experience behind him."

Although Bartow is only 29 years old, he has been in coaching for 10 years. He began as a student-assistant coach at Central Missouri State in 1969. Two years later he received his bachelors degree and in 1974, his masters degree in education from CMS.

Bartow coached four years on the high school level—two at West Platte, Mo. and two at Moberly. His teams set school records for winning.

In 1975, Bartow tackled his first college head coaching job, when he was hired by Central Methodist College. In his first year, he led his team to a 12-16 record. In his second season, his team finished 20-6, which was the most wins at the school in 22 years.

Bartow hopes to transform the success he enjoyed at those schools into a championship-calibre team at UMSL. When the team takes the floor next year, Bartow will be out there preaching fundamentals as always.

"I stress fundamentals," said UMSL's new head mentor. "That's my number one goal—to have a fundamentally sound team—and it always will be my goal."

Bartow also announced plans for his recruiting procedures. He feels that emphasis should be placed on recruiting a player right out of high school, so that he can build a team that will be strong when his prize recruits become juniors and seniors.

Bartow revealed that he is close to signing some of the top players on his list, including some of the top players in the St. Louis area.

Bartow is the nephew of Gene Bartow, a former head coach at UCLA and Memphis State and currently head coach at the University of Alabama-Birmingham.

NEW COACH: Tom Bartow announced that he is accepting the job as head basketball coach at a news conference, April 10 [photo by Chuck Higdon].

Bartow's statement made to the press

"For the past two years, it has been my pleasure to serve the university and Coach Smith as assistant basketball coach. Having accepted the position as head basketball coach, I would like to thank the members of the Search Committee, Coach Smith, Dr. Walters, and Chancellor Grobman for their faith in me.

Coach Smith, in just 13 years, has provided a solid foundation for this program while performing two difficult jobs. He has achieved success in both.

We also hope to succeed by concentrating our recruiting efforts on the St. Louis area. Stressing the quality of education our student athletes receive at UMSL, and third, emphasizing conditioning, team work both on and off the floor. If we can do these three things, and have our players play to their potential, winning will take care of itself."

Rivermen show consistency

Greg Kavouras

The UMSL golf team finished sixth in the Park College Invitational in Kansas City last week. Host Park College won the tourney. Baker University finished second and William Jewel pulled in third.

Although the Rivermen have shot consistently this year, never finishing worse than sixth, they have yet to win a tournament. "We're just not playing well together as a team," said Andy Smith, head coach. "Hopefully we'll get better soon."

Senior John Hayes grabbed individual honors for UMSL in the two day event, firing 77-82-159. Hayes, UMSL's number one player, "is starting to come around," according to Smith. His scores have gradually improved through the spring campaign.

Other Riverman scores over the hilly Windbrook Country Club layout included Dave Manes with 81-79-160 and Gary Esayian with 80-85-165. Dave Smith carded 83-88-171 and Mike Hartman posted an 88-86-174 score.

Halfway through the schedule, Hayes and Manes are pacing the Rivermen with an 80.3 stroke average. Clay Smith's 82.4 is close behind and Hartman is averaging 82.8 strokes per round. Senior Pat Murphy displays an even 84.0 stroke average.

The team does not compete again until Thursday, when they travel to Joplin, Mo. to play in the Crossroads of American intercollegiate tournament.

Net teams progress

The UMSL women's tennis team won two of three matches over the weekend, defeating Evangel College 7-3 Friday and Saturday and then losing to Missouri Southern 6-3 Saturday, all in Springfield, Missouri.

UMSL winners against Evangel were Janet Coats, Jan Branch, Christel Maassen and Janet Ossie in singles. UMSL swept the doubles competition with Kim Valentine and Cheryl Reed winning at number one, Coats and Branch teaming for the win at number two and Maassen and Linda Meyers winning at number three.

UMSL winners against Missouri Southern were Valentine at number two, Coats at number three and Reed and Valentine in number one doubles. The matches brought UMSL's season record to 4-4.

UMSL's men's tennis squad will try for its second victory of the season when the Rivermen play Washington University at 3pm Friday at Washington University. The Rivermen dropped a 6-1 decision last Wednesday to Westminster. Al Wolk and Guy Knapp teamed at number one doubles for the Rivermen's only win. UMSL's record now stands at 1-5.

Coach Gomes resigns

UMSL women's basketball and tennis coach Carol Gomes has resigned, effective at the end of the current academic year. A native of Florence, Arizona, Gomes has coached the Riverwomen the past two seasons. UMSL women's athletic director Judy Berres says she hopes to organize procedures in order to fill the positions as quickly as possible.
